are full of life. The style is smart and proper. However, the tailoring and woollens do not suffer on that account.

The workmanship is perfect, service-rendered. Yet—the fabrics, the fashioning are not less noticed to make it so.

The woollens are brilliant, novel, reliable, embodying consummate quality. Still—the designing and tailoring are not slighted for that reason.

In other words, in Popular Cash Store Clothes, you receive clothes that you would term "complete."

FRIENDSHIP

A quince, a peach and a plum.
Were the gifts which to me you made
And I gave you an emerald,
With a ruby and piece of jade.
Do I measure the value of gifts
Which pass between me and you?
No, friendship is greater than gifts
When friends are faithful and true.
—Ancient Chinese (tr. by C. F. R. Allen).

AN OLD GUARD REBUKE

WHEN Justice Hughes was in the state of Washington he gave the cold shoulder to Senator Poindexter just as later on he did to Governor Johnson in California. Both Poindexter and Johnson are progressive republicans and they are bitterly hated by the old guard. When in the west Justice Hughes placed himself in the keeping of the party reactionaries. His visit to Washington was a handicap upon the Poindexter campaign.

Yet like Johnson, Poindexter has won out despite the Hughes snub. He was renominated for senator by a heavy plurality over Humphrey. It is not complimentary to the publican presidential campaign or to the old guard element.

Coming quickly on the heels of their greatly reduced majority in Maine the Poindexter victory gives the republican organization something to think about.

STUDENT SMOKERS

THE students of the Pendleton high school did right to applaud a rule that there should be no smoking or drinking on the part of members of the school athletic teams.

This is not a moral question. It is a scientific one and has to do with physical and mental efficiency. Tobacco is a narcotic. Excessive use is injurious both physically and mentally. It tends to cloud the mind and lessen vitality, the effects being more pronounced with some people than with others. Since the student's mind is in the development period he is the last person who should be an habitual smoker.

Other things being equal the athletic team whose members do not smoke or drink will "have it over" another team equal in prowess save that it is composed of players intemperate in their habits. This is not mere theory, it is a fact that has been demonstrated as often as there are days in the year.

Student athletes however, do not need any more protection along this line than do other students. A student needs a clear mind and vigorous body regardless of whether or not he is on a team. He will find this very true in after life as well as in school, if he tries to get anywhere by his own ability.

Habits that impair one's physical or mental prowess should be kept under heel or else tabooed entirely and the sooner in life this lesson is learned the better.

DEEDS, NOT WORDS

POSTMASTER GENERAL BURLESON recently forwarded to the Treasury Department a check for $5,200,000, the amount of the surplus in postal revenues for the past fiscal year. According to Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo it was the third time since 1836 that surplus postal revenues have been deposited in the treasury, all those being since the beginning of President Wilson's administration.

In the fiscal year 1913 the surplus was $3,800,000 and in 1914 it was $3,500,000.

At about the same date that the check above mentioned was sent to the Treasury Department, a tentative allotment of a million dollars for construction and maintenance of roads and trails in national forests was announced by Secretary of Agriculture Houston. This amount is to be expended during the present fiscal year out of the $10,000,000 appropriated by the Federal Road Act. By the terms of the act, the states are requested to cooperate to the extent of at least 50 per cent of the cost of surveys and construction.

FOR A CHILD WORLD

MOST of this poor world's troubles are due to the popular delusion that it exists for the pleasure and profit of grown-up people. Nothing could be farther from the truth, says the Chicago News.

As a few gifted, far seeing individuals, among them the Founder of Christianity, have realized, the world and its machinery exist for the pleasure and profit of children. For of such is the kingdom of heaven, which is an excellent model for the world to copy.

No reasoning person can doubt that the world would be a happier and better place to live in if child welfare were considered first of all. Every race, nation and creed could unite on such a program. There would be no jealousies, no rivalries, no bickerings. The child heart, untainted by the selfish words and acts of its elders, knows no such evils or limitations. If we lived to make children healthy and happy, promoting instead of discouraging the loving intercourses they seek, we should be better men and women from every point of view.

The East Oregonian is still inclined to the belief the library affairs should be placed under control of the fire department.

While the railroads are making such good earnings they should not object to the eight hour law.

After Villa is surrounded he should be incarcerated.

Look out for colds.

28 Years Ago Today

(From the Daily East Oregonian, Sept. 14, 1888.)

Dick Cox, formerly located here and now assistant cashier of a bank at Colfax, was among the Colfax citizens who accompanied their baseball team to Pendleton.

A gentleman who is perfectly reliable offers to bet $100 that Cleveland will carry New York; $100 that Cleveland will carry Indiana and another $10 that Cleveland will be elected.

Saturday night a number of Pendleton's nice young men had quite a lull in their partying, indulging in a good many pranks. One of their brightest actions was to dump all the cases on the sidewalk around the Peoples Warehouse into the street. This side-splitting joke afforded them much entertainment.

The wife of M. S. Robinson, residing near the Holms school house built a large fire Wednesday in hopes of smoking out the bed bugs. The smoke did not destroy the bugs but the fire did. It also destroyed the house and all its contents.

James Daniels, the old farmer who had his knee cap broken during a political argument with a brother granger, is still lying at the Golden Rule suffering from the effects of the fracture.

Richardson, the lunch counter man came near being burned up before the appointed time yesterday afternoon at the train. His clothing was set on fire by some means but after burning a portion of his coat the conflagration was gotten under control.

Farewell Party—Last Thursday evening we were called upon, yes sent for, and caused to accept of an invitation to a farewell party of Miss Emma Miller at the residence of Mr. Porter. A nice time was had for a few hours, playing numerous games known to our boyhood, among the in-interesting games being that of smut, as a member stated, he played the game for some time in order to get the chance to smut a VERY good looking young lady's FAIR complexion and was much deceived in seeing the cork had been whitened in the undertaking. Ladies present were Misses Anna Reeves, Millie Young, Viola Despain, Susie Despain, Carrie Keeney, Mary White, Allis Daughtrey, Carrie Wells, Lena Allen, Sallie Gilcrest, Katie Webb and Maggie Gilcrest. Several married ladies were present. The gathering was a splendid affair and was much enjoyed by all. Miss Katie Webb discoursed the music of the evening with a few choice songs. "Come one, again."

Alexander, commonly called "Alex" has at last gone from our gaze. His smiling phiz is seen no more upon the street. His winning ways will cause no blush upon the fair of Pendleton for some time to come. His black glossy locks, beaming countenance and tastefully arranged dress will next be heard of in San Francisco where he goes to purchase one of the largest stocks of goods ever brought to this market. San Francisco belles, take care; oh, beware.

We are sorry to have to state that Abe Jacobsen has a severe attack of cholera morbus, but is now convalescent. "May his shadow never grow less."

G. W. Webb has gone from our gaze to Portland to renew his stock of stoves and tinware. Coley Marshall attends to the business in Webb's absence.

Last Monday one of the Columbias who was known to the Cayuse and Umatillas as having been engaged in the late unpleasantness when told that he must deliver himself up to the whites, coolly drew a pistol and blew the top of his head off. Thus they glided—ame, Waugh-te-luin.

THE END OF THE TRAIL
WILLIAM FOX PRODUCTION

Here are some of the big moments in the new William Fox picture which stars William Farnum, "The End of the Trail."

1. Adrienne Cabot (Gladys Brockwell) leaves her husband "Devil" Cabot (William Farnum), because he has ill-treated her.
2. Jules le Clerc (William Farnum) meets the girl and falls in love with her.
3. Adrienne tells Jules the story of her life.
4. Devil is left in the snows by an Indian guide, who thinks he has killed the white man.
5. Adrienne marries Jules.
6. Devil, rescued by prospectors, captures his wife and takes her home with him. He leaves Jules, bound and helpless, in the cabin. He takes with him the baby of Jules and Adrienne.
7. The girl strikes her husband with a poker, and leaves him. She rejoins Jules, who takes her and their baby back to his home.
8. The mother dies. The baby girl grows up. She meets Devil Cabot in a saloon. He accuses her, and tries to kiss her.
9. Jules arrives in time to save his daughter. He fights Devil Cabot and kills him.
